

Prenatal Awareness

Week Designated for

August 6-12

1984

The nine months before birth may be the most significant in a baby's life. Good prenatal care, started early in pregnancy, can benefit the baby for its entire life, and ensure the well-being of the mother during and after pregnancy.

For that reason, August 6-12 will be designated as Prenatal Awareness Week in Utah. The Wasatch City-County Health Department, Wasatch County Hospital, Utah State Medical Association, and Utah Hospital Association will join with the Utah Department of Health and other local health departments across prenatal care, sought early in pregnancy, is so essential:

"A baby's health, health patterns and even intelligence and mental abilities may be significantly affected by what goes on before they are born."

In support of this special week, Mr. Wayne Terry, Administrator of the Wasatch County Hospital, has made free pregnancy testing available to county residents. For more information call 654-2500 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. and ask to speak to Kim Hoover in the hospital laboratory. This service is
